Trilantic gets exclusive on de-dupe technology

Trilantic has become the exclusive UK and European provider of Equivio 'near duplication' technology. Equivio is used during discovery to sort through document collections (documents can be in nearly any format or file type) to identify near duplicates, so litigators can focus on reviewing unique documents rather than copies. Trilantic founder Nigel Murray says the rapid expansion of document collections, thanks to email, means it is not unusual to find that near duplicates now represent 20-to-50% of typical collections. As part of the Equivio launch, Trilantic is offering free trials of the system with sample data. For details phone 020 7042 1000.
