Trilantic Selects SAVVIS IT Utility Services

*High Availability Solution Provides Flexibility To Grow
As Business Needs Demand Without Disrupting Service Quality*

LONDON - November 8, 2005 - SAVVIS, Inc. (NASDAQ:SVVS), a leading global IT utility provider, today announced that Trilantic, a legal support services company that specialises in the provision of traditional and eDocument management solutions, has chosen to implement SAVVIS' virtualised IT utility services.

Under the terms of the contract, SAVVIS will supply Trilantic with high-availability IT infrastructure services that includes utility storage and compute architectures, as well as managed security services.

Rather than requiring the upfront capital expenses that often translate into underutilised hardware, SAVVIS' pay-as-you-go service offers Trilantic the ability to add server and storage capacity as their business grows. These on-demand utility services, based on virtualised hardware and automated management systems, are particularly well-suited for companies with intensive compute, storage and security needs.

Based in the United Kingdom, Trilantic provides lawyers, in-house counsel, accountants and auditors with a complete litigation support service throughout the entire life of a case. Their capabilities include: identification of relevant documents, gathering of live and archived data, data restoration, scanning and coding, electronic conversion, e-library creation, e-bibles, document filtration, printing, document production and trial support, on-line databases, and document presentation.

"Our software and services are engineered to manage large volumes of mission-critical data for our clients, so we can not tolerate inflexible and unreliable IT solutions," said Nigel Murray, Managing Director of Trilantic. "By providing us with high availability IT utility services, SAVVIS is helping us achieve the performance and security standards that our clients demand. In addition, the scalability of the SAVVIS platform will allow us to grow when we need to, without interfering with the high service quality we provide."

"Demand for legal services in the United Kingdom is generating voluminous quantities of electronic legal documentation that need to be managed in a secure and efficient manner, and Trilantic is focused on solving this problem," said Richard Warley, Managing Director of EMEA, SAVVIS. "We're pleased that Trilantic recognised SAVVIS' ability to provide them with the IT infrastructure they need, whenever they need it. From secure, world-class data center facilities to a global Tier-1 network to massively scalable IT services, SAVVIS offers each company a customized solution that complements their business model and industry."
